Anti-ageing and revitalisation

Drawing strength from our expertise in preventing and treating degenerative diseases associated with stress, overexertion and ageing, we have the privilege of proposing two original and complementary revitalisation methods that procure additional benefits for our patients and whose effects can be aggregated to produce the best possible results. Our treatments can be combined.

A revitalization according to the Biotonus method

Characteristics: our active products works against the ageing process by strengthening the body's natural defences.

This treatment has an established track record in the treatment of degenerative diseases, such as rheumatic diseases, articular cartilage degeneration, metabolic disorders, cardiovascular diseases, chronic respiratory diseases, digestive diseases, urogenital disorders, neurological disorders and sleep disorders.

Our treatment is also recommended for stimulating hormone production, regulating hormone imbalances, stimulating sexual functions and treating menopause-related conditions, as well as preventing osteoporosis, providing biological protection against cancer, strengthening the immune system and revitalising the body by acting in accordance with the patient's individual needs.

The method simultaneously revives the patient's physical and mental strength.

Treatment length: 4 nights / 5 days with a full medical check-up.

A revitalization according to Professor Aslan method

The Aslan treatment was developed in the sixties by Pofessor Ana Alsan. This treatment improves the blood circulation and the cellular oxygenation, it's effective in the prophylaxis of ageing at the molecular level and chronic degenerative ailments. It has a positive effect upon states of depression, fatigue, deterioration of memory and concentration, also on skin and hair aspects, muscular tonus and articulation mobility. In the whole, the patient begins to show signs of improvement in both physical and mental well-being.

Treatment length: 9 nights / 10 days with a full medical check-up.

From our carefully selected treatments, our experienced and competent physicians will help you choose the best revitalisation program:

- ✓ for organic deficiencies we recommend the Biotonus method
- ✓ for stimulation of the cellular metabolism we recommend the Alsan method

Furthermore, we use specific active principles. By stimulating the cellular metabolism, they have a protective effect against stress, burnout and problems of ageing.

Location:

Ideally located in the city center of Montreux. Therefore, you can combine your treatment with amazing sightseeing possibilities of beautiful Montreux. Montreux is only 90 minutes away from Geneva Airport.
